

THANK YOU SIFAT FAMILY!

Without your prayers, donations and participation, SIFAT could not keep Sharing God's Love in Practical Ways! During 2018, we continued doing this through our international community development training, international mission teams and projects and campus programs.. Because of you, thousands of lives throughout the world have been impacted by meeting basic human needs and improving daily life for those living in hard places.

INTERNATIONAL TRAINING

International training director Kathy Bryson spent much of 2018 following up with SIFAT graduates in the field and exploring future training opportunities. She traveled to Nicaragua in February to meet with universities there. In March, she saw the impact of SIFAT training as she visited remote indigenous villages in the mountains of Guatemala. A trip to Honduras in June continued our partnership with the national agricultural university and the SIFAT alumni association as staff from ECHO gave trainings. Kathy lived in Costa Rica from August to December, networking with churches, nonprofits and universities to lay the ground work to open our Latin American training center in 2019.

Three trainings were held at SIFAT in April, May and August to bring international community leaders and American university students together to learn practical skills to address world hunger and poverty.

INTERNATIONAL TEAMS & GRADUATE PROJECTS

In Bolivia and Ecuador, 18 short-term teams served alongside our graduates. Teams to Quesimpuco, Bolivia finished a health clinic in Chijmu to allow Dr. Ruth Noemi to expand her public health outreach and began construction on another clinic. They installed a micro irrigation system to provide food security for the villagers. Ecuador teams began construction in Aida Leon on an after-school facility for 200 children and provided medical care to six communities. In Uganda, several SIFAT-sponsored orphans at Agape graduated and began university or trade school because of your scholarships.

Our graduate project committee approved seven projects for goat and pig rearing, a palm plantation, a solar array power system for a computer lab, food growing, water wells and economic empowerment. A total of $46,750 was raised to fund these graduate projects.
